A Book of Interest

A BOOK of exceptional local interest has come to the editor's desk. It is entitled "The Canadian Y.M.C.A. in World War II" and the author is none other than Alan M. Hurst, who was director of Y.M.C.A. war services in British Columbia during the war and who is now principal of the Prince Rupert High Schools.

Apart from the angle of interest through the authorship, Prince Rupert receives a large measure of attention through the telling of the story of the war services of the Y.M.C.A. which stemmed out of this city into a vast and isolated area. Increasing the interest are many "now it can be told" aspects of the tale.

The book tells in fine style the history of a fine job well done.

Interesting appendices are replete with valuable statistical information.

BETTER FARM LIFE

THERE IS no getting away from the fact that if we expect to be fed, it is the farm we must look to. So it is with more than indifferent satisfaction that Canada should hear Ottawa's announcement that the farmers are prospering. To a degree greater than ever before they are improving their possessions, and making every-day life more convenient and liveable. Water systems are being installed in homes. There are bathrooms, flush toilets, kitchen sinks with accompanying water, piping and outlets, and also septic tanks. Compared with 1948, improvements reveal a 53.3% increase. There has been a total of $19,000,000 made in loans, chiefly in Ontario and the prairies. This has made possible new buildings, an extension of electrification, small house construction for farm help and the replacing of machinery.

Too long have those who create the crops on which we all depend, accepted long hours, endless work, scant reward and little comfort.

HOW TO GET ALONG!

KEEP SKID CHAINS on your tongue; always say less than you think. Cultivate a low, persuasive voice. How you say it often counts more than what you say.

Make promises sparingly and keep them faithfully, no matter what it costs you.

Never let an opportunity pass to say a kind and encouraging word to or about somebody. Praise good work done, regardless of who did it. If criticism is needed, criticize helpfully, never spitefully.

Be interested in others; interested in their pursuits, their welfare, their homes and families. Make merry with those that rejoice; with those who weep, mourn. Let everyone you meet, however humble, feel that you regard him as one of importance.

Be careful. Keep the corners of your mouth turned up. Hide your pains, worries, and disappointments under a smile.

Preserve an open mind on all debatable questions. Deliberate, but do not argue. It is a mark of superior minds to disagree and yet be friendly.

Let your virtues, if you have any, speak for themselves, and refuse to talk of another's vices. Discourage gossip. Make it a rule to say nothing of another unless it is something good.

Be careful of another's feelings. Wit and humor at the other fellow's expense are rarely worth the effort, and may hurt where least expected.

Pay no attention to ill-natured remarks about you. Simply live so that nobody will believe them. Disordered nerves and a bad digestion are a common cause of back-biting.

Don't be too anxious about your dues. Do your work, be patient and keep your disposition sweet, forget self, and you will be rewarded.

SATURDAY SERMON

TRUE OR FALSE IN RELIGION

(By Rev. Earl Soland, St. Paul's Lutheran Church)
 "Beloved, believe not every spirit, but prove the spirits, whether they are of God: because many false prophets are gone out into the world." I John 4:1.

All men are religious. Some are more so than others. There are many kinds of religion. Most religions have much in common. There is the worship of someone or something which involves self-denial and sacrifice. There is a recognition that an atonement for guilt must be made. There is also the fact that we are responsible to another being. Our life is not our own, but its service belongs to another. Many religions recognize these principles.

There is a great difference in the methods by which men try to satisfy these inmost cravings of a spiritual kind. These differences are responsible for the many kinds of religion. We are reminded in the text that it is the spirits that cause the forms of worship. When men have a kindred spirit, they band themselves together for the purpose of worship. When they have divergent spirits, then they disagree and do not have a common bond for unity. It is the spirit within man that determines
